HOME WATERS (Jan 22) is an Autumn Canoe journey down the Connecticut River, Rob Perkins' "Home River" It's a hopeful look at a river that has been described as the most beautifully-landscaped cesspool in America, but is on it's way back to health. The film brings with it an environmental message that is a recurring theme in Rob's world view.

TALKING TO ANGELS (Jan 29) is about the experience of Rob's wife, Rene's, illness and death from breast cancer. They made a journal of the experience of how it was for both of them to be thrown into a reluctant struggle with an unbeatable foe. Times of hopefulness, helplessness, resignation and deep insight. This life affirming legacy of their journey is a valuable one to share.

These hour-long films will be presented with readings and discussion with Rob Perkins details - www.islandnet.com/mm
