Here's the antithesis of the hot, flashy films that are entertaining us in the theatres these days. Here's a simple story about a few days in a woman and dog's life that I found engrossing. I hope you will too. It reminded me more of real life than most other films I've watched in years. Don't read reviews and ratings (it's best if you have know idea what happens next, that's real life...) 80min 2008 R (for language) Just come and see this and we'll talk.

A Chorus Line was a tremendously successful Broadway Musical in the 70s through the 90s (I saw it in London '75 and it was brilliant) and it was an ok film by Michael Douglas (1985). This documentary follows a remounting of the musical and looks at the history of this enduring story against the backdrop of the current casting and workup to a new production. It's the perfect setup for a great reality show. This one is more than that. 113min 2008 PG13

Our guest: Dr Delaney Ruston is an internal medicine doctor and award winning documentary filmmaker.

Jean-Claude Van Damme plays himself as an out-of-luck actor. He is out of money; his agent cannot find him a decent production; and the judge in a custody battle is inclined to give custody of his daughter over to his ex-wife. He returns to his childhood home of Brussels where he is still considered a national icon. Then he gets drawn into a bank heist. Can he rise to the occasion? To date, this is the only Van Damme film to be listed as Certified Fresh on the Tomatometer at 85%! 97min 2008 Rated R for language and some violence.

COMEDY TONIGHT!

Robin Williams is brilliant in this classic comedy. I watched some old video rushes of the MM audience loving this film when we showed it back in '94. It was so much fun and we were all enjoying laughing together - I decided it's time to roll it out again. A jilted husband attempts to be close to his kids by transforming into a Scottish lady and, under deep cover, applies to be their nanny. 125min 1993 PG
