

at MOVIE MONDAY

6:30 Monday June 1, 2015

GRANNY POWER

GRANNY POWER is a documentary about a very original activist movement – the Raging Grannies.

Spanning 10 years, the film follows several passionate, activist grandmothers and their “gaggles” as they fight for peace, social justice and the environment.

From its beginnings 25 years ago - here in Victoria, B.C. - to its present as an international movement, it has relied on the power of elder ladies, using humour and the power of granny-ism to get serious points across. I mean, really, who has the heart to get tough with grannies singing biting-but-funny songs, wearing flowery hats? 78min 2014 Pg13

Warning: Grannies will be in attendance, more than likely misbehaving!

www.moviemonday.ca

supported by:

Canada Council
for the Arts

Conseil des Arts
du Canada

at the Eric Martin Pavilion Theatre 1900 Block Fort St Free...Donations much appreciated!